Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

1. Claims 1-13 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Mileaf et al. The reference discloses a method for sorting a plurality of items, to each of which a sequence number is assigned, into a predetermined sorted sequence using a plurality of sorting regions, including for each sort, at least one initial sorting region, and at least two additional sorting regions, at least one of the additional sorting regions functioning as a return region, the items being initially located, in an unsorted order, in the at least one initial sorting region, the method comprising the acts of: sorting the items in each at least one initial sorting region into an intermediary sorted set by moving at least some of the items in the at least one initial sorting region between the at least one initial sorting region and at least two of the additional sorting regions; and sorting the items within each intermediary sorted set by moving at least some of the items to the return region in substantially the predetermined sorted sequence (col. 4, lines 26+).

2. With regards to claim 2, the reference further discloses using a computer to track the location of each of the plurality of items (col. 4, lines 26+).

3. With regards to claim 3, the reference further discloses the items are sorted in a single pass (col. 4, lines 26+).

4. With regards to claim 4, the reference further discloses conveying items from at least one of the return regions serially and in the predetermined sorted sequence (col. 4, lines 26+).

5. With regards to claim 5, the reference further inherently discloses placing an identifier with each of the plurality of items.

6. With regards to claim 6, the reference further inherently discloses checking the identifier to ensure that the order of the items substantially matches the predetermined sorted sequence.

7. With regards to claim 7, the reference further discloses the items are positioned linearly in the sorting regions (col. 4, lines 26+).

8. With regards to claim 8, the reference further discloses a computer is used to control the movement and positioning of the items according to a predetermined algorithm (col. 14, lines 4+).

9. With regards to claim 9, the reference further discloses an apparatus for sorting a plurality of items comprising: a plurality of sorting regions, wherein the plurality of sorting regions comprise for each sorting at least one initial region in which the items are initially located in an unsorted order, at least one return region in which items are located after completion of sorting and at least one additional region used in the sorting; a first mechanism for physically moving at least one item between at least two selected sorting regions; a second mechanism for physically moving at least one item between positions within each sorting region; an item location tracking mechanism; and a controls operative for controlling the first and second mechanisms to move the items into a predetermined sorted sequence at least partly in response to the tracking mechanism (col. 4, lines 26+).

Art Unit: 3653

10. With regards to claim 10, the reference further discloses at least some of the sorting regions are located one under another and wherein the first mechanism includes an elevator (col. 4, lines 26+; Figs. 3 and 4a).

11. With regards to claim 11, the reference further discloses the second mechanism is a conveyor (col. 4, lines 26+; Figs. 3 and 4a).

12. With regards to claim 12, the reference further discloses the controls include a processor running a subroutine for issuing instructions according to a selected item sorting algorithm (col. 4, lines 26+).

13. With regards to claim 13, the reference further discloses the items are postal bins (col. 10, lines 33+).

14. With regards to claim 15, the reference further discloses a plurality of sorting regions, wherein the plurality of sorting regions comprise for each sorting at least one initial region in which the items are initially located in an unsorted order, at least one return region in which items are located after completion of sorting and at least one additional region used in the sorting, means for physically moving at least one item between at least two selected sorting regions of the plurality of sorting regions; means for physically moving at least one item between positions within each of the plurality of sorting regions; means for tracking the location of items; and means operative at least partly in response the tracking mechanism for controlling the first and second mechanisms to reposition items into a predetermined sorted sequence (col. 4, lines 26+).

Information Disclosure Statement

15. The information disclosure statement filed 10/27/03 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(3) because it does not include a concise explanation of the relevance, as it is presently understood by the individual designated in 37 CFR 1.56(c) most knowledgeable about the content of the information, of each patent listed that is not in the English language. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered.

Conclusion
